Remember the Looking Glass

The beautiful autumn air was refreshing. Above was a clear sky of blue. Every tree was filled with hundreds of warm shades that fell like a forest of sakura trees. Even though the streets were still damp from last night's rain, it was still perfect. It was the best afternoon two high school students could ask for. They believed that it was an untouchable bliss.

"So, what do want to do today? I mean we can practically go ware ever we want for the rest of the day." The girl with shortly cropped hair began to skip ahead. "Well we could find some place to hang out, without anyone bothering us." The longer haired girl continued her slower pace. "Oh I know! Let's sneak into the abandoned elementary school!" With excitement the short haired girl turned around to show the full force of her raspberry violet eyes. "Uh, why? I mean we'll get into trouble if we mess up. Not exactly the way I want to end a perfect day." Chestnut brown eyes widened in shock at this proposal. They both stopped. "Don't worry about it. I actually found this trail thru the woods in the back of my house and it leads right to the school house ware no one can see us. As long as were quiet, we can say there until nightfall." The first girl beamed with pride at her plan. The second girl still sunk her shoulders, unconvinced.

>Chocolate chip cookies and milk were difficult to taste for the more modest of the two girls. "Kazuko, I need to leave for the night and I won't be back until after midnight. You should probably take Chiyoko home now before I leave." The shorter haired girl turned to her elder cousin in response. "Is it for work? But if we can call her Uncle then can she sleepover for the night?" Kazuko made her first move. Pausing at her bag of needed fliers, the older woman gave Kazuko and Chiyoko a quick glance. "Hm, alright. Just stay in the house after dark." Flipping her rich, long, dark hair from the color of her wool coat, the woman reached for her purse. "Have a good day, Kamiko!" After said Kamiko's car had driven all the way down the street, Kazuko turned to Chiyoko with a mischievous smile. "Just get the O.K from your Uncle and we'll be all clear." With that, Chiyoko finally began to feel confident enough to stop worrying.

The two girls still had 3 hours to explore the school house. Everyone in there grade had wanted to check this uncharted place since middle school. Yet, every attempt had been throated by the groundskeeper. Now the two thick thieves had an ace and would use it for the first time.

>Author's Note: So ya this is going to be something of a reincarnated fic. Kazuko: Senhime, Chiyoko: Chizuru. Just to avoid any confusion. I just figured I'd write one about Senhime since she's about the only character without a fanfiction. R&R please. If this story goes well I will defiantly keep making for fics for this character
